Please note that much of this publication is based on personal experience and anecdotal evidence. Although I have made every reasonable attempt to achieve complete accuracy of the content in this Guide, I assume no responsibility for errors or omissions. Also, you should use this information as you see fit, and at your own risk. I am an expert at what I do and I have years of first hand experience to back it all up. Even so, I cannot guarantee that everything outlined in this guide will pertain to your exact situation. In fact, it is likely that you will not get the exact same results. Success with any home decorating project begins with the implementer's own skill base.

What I do guarantee is that I believe in you and your ability to get the job done! I know that you can do anything you set your mind to and this is also true for any decorating projects you undertake. Armed with the right tools and knowledge you can makeover any room and get the most kickass layout on the block!

One more thing... If you click a link that redirects you to a site that is outside of this publication and you purchase something from that site, I may get a commission. I'm telling you this because I want to be completely transparent with any affiliate agreements that I participate with. It's also the law to disclose this to you. Here's the deal, I will always recommend exceptional products or services to you because I want to make the joys of decorating easier for you. The key is, I will only recommend products and/or services that I have first hand experience with and that I have found to be the best of the best. I also promise to reinvest the proceeds from any affiliate sale back into my products and services so that I can continue to provide the best experience for you.

Thank you so much for checking out my No Fail Lighting Formula guide. It works for any size room. Just plug in your own numbers and it will tell you exactly how many light sources your room needs. I hope this guide will help you get the important steps underway so you can brighten up your room!

The No Fail Room Lighting Formula

If you want to make your small, dark room feel larger this is the simple formula to follow: And, truth be told, it will work for large rooms too.

Measure the length and width of your room in feet.

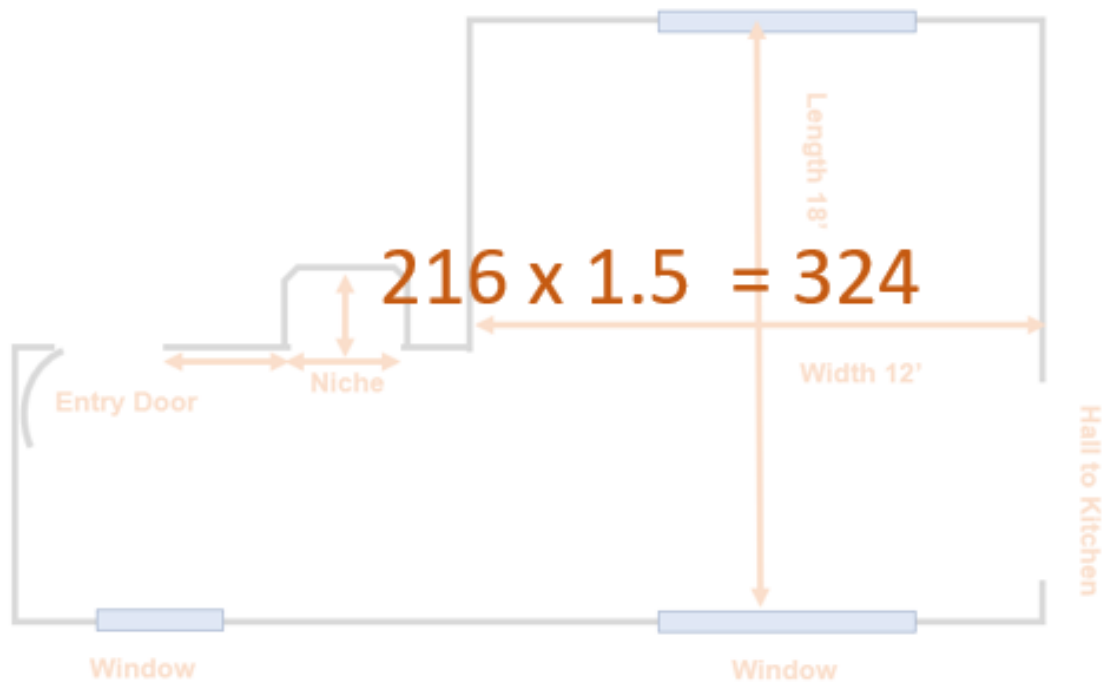

Round room measurements up to the next whole number. If 17'.5", make it 18'.

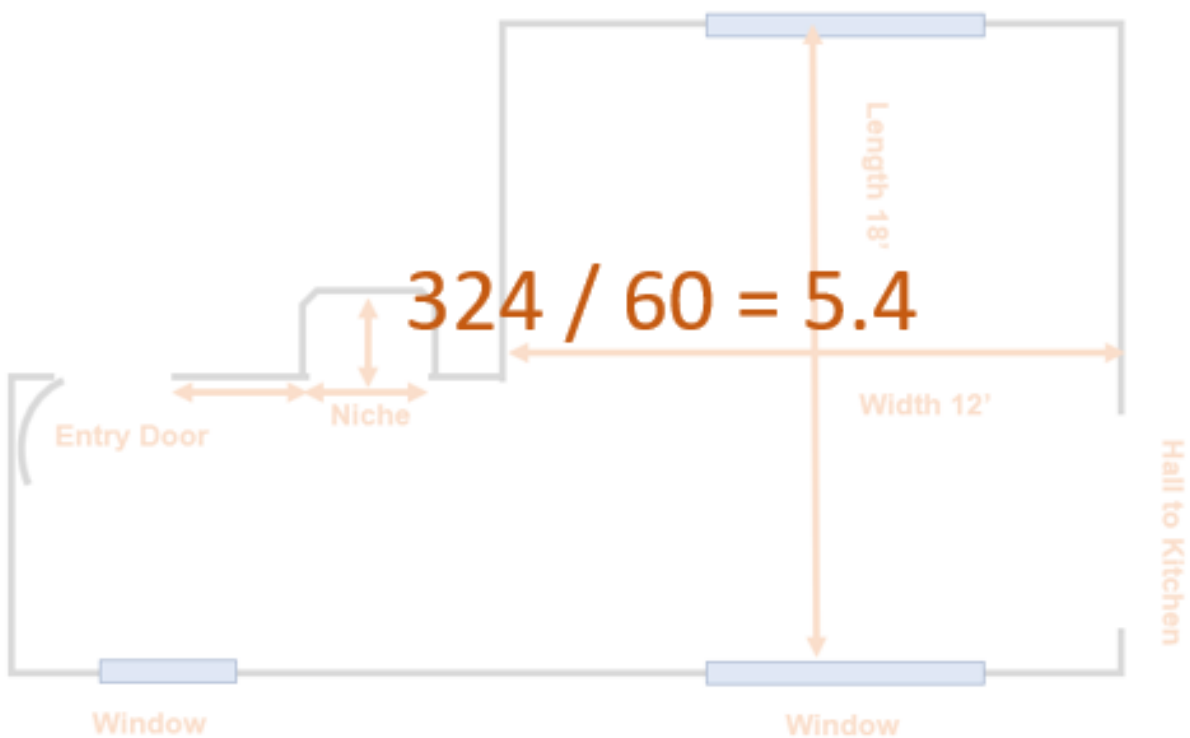

Multiply those two numbers together.

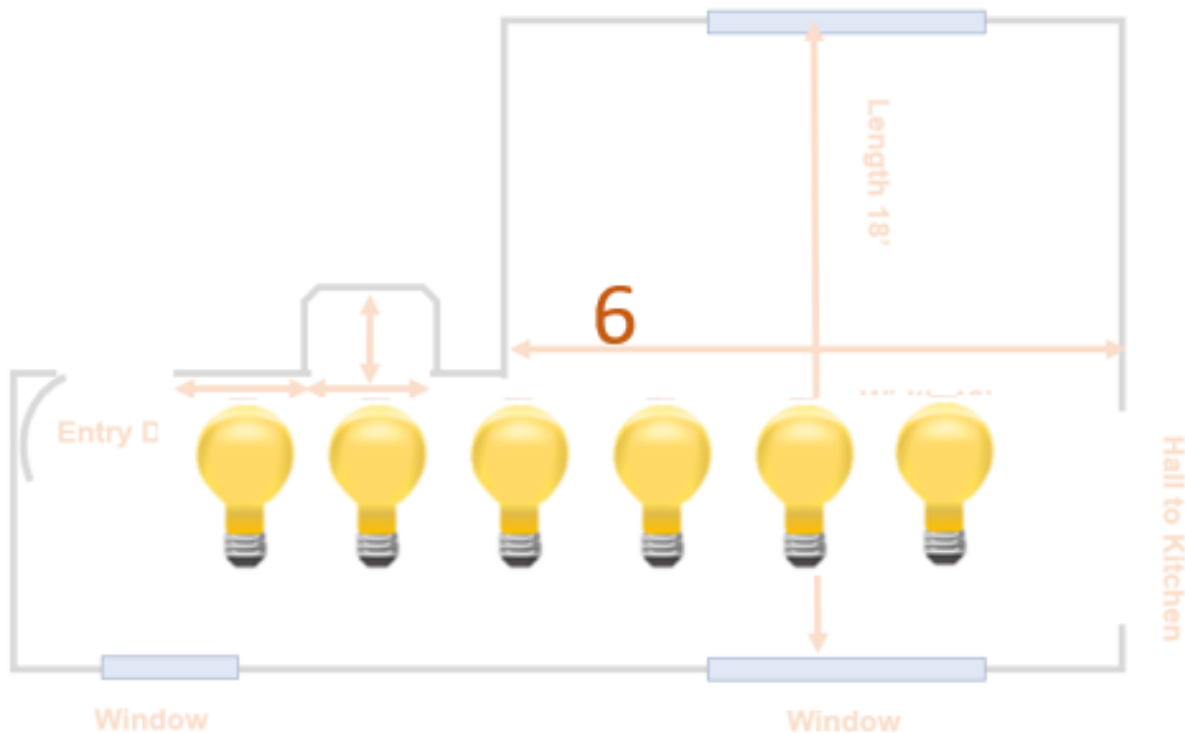

Then take that result and multiply it by 1.5 to get the number of watts needed to adequately light the space.

Last, divide that result by 60 or 40 (that is the average watt for a light bulb).

If you get a fraction, round up to the next whole number.

For example, if you get a 5.4, round up to 6.

That whole number is the number of light sources you will need for your space. Now, you can achieve that optimal lighting in a number of ways.

It can be with a combination of ceiling, floor and table lighting.

It can also be all table lamps or all floor lamps. It's totally up to you.

The calculation gives you the optimal number of light sources to illuminate your exact size room.

I help busy homeowners who struggle to bring their decorating ideas to life through e-design

I've helped hundreds of clients take the inspiration they see on television, in magazines, and on the internet, and apply it to their homes.

I do this by providing actionable plans that simplify many decorating and design processes through my e-decorating services. With e-decorating, I work with clients near and far to accomplish the same goal, to get them a custom decorating plan tailored to their personal style and individual needs.

My clients love that they no longer have to guess at wall colors or hope for the best when picking out furniture, rugs or accessories and accents. All they need to do is simply follow the detailed, personal plan that I provide to get the look and feel they've been hoping for! Best of all, they know that when they receive their plan they can install it with confidence and it will look great!

When I'm not helping my clients tackle the most amazing makeovers, you can usually find me out scouting new design inspiration at showrooms in and around Buffalo and Florida. I can't help it... I live for decorating and design. If I am kicking back, I'm usually watching crazy 90's britcoms on demand, reading self development books or watching stupidly funny movies a la Will Ferrell. What can I say, he's a genius... Don't judge me.
